Untitled #2 (Readymade)* at the Denver Art Museum

Paul D. Miller a.k.a. DJ Spooky That Subliminal Kid to Perform at Final-Friday Event

DAM's "hipster" final-Friday event in March will highlight the world of irreverent artist Marcel Duchamp, and will feature guest musician "DJ Spooky That Subliminal Kid" on March 30 from 6-10 pm. Paul D. Miller, a.k.a. "DJ Spooky That Subliminal Kid," is an electronic and experimental hip-hop artist who has remixed sound recordings of Marcel Duchamp in some of his work. He's coming to Denver from the East Coast specifically to perform at Untitled #2 (Readymade).

Like the Untitled final-Friday event of every month, Untitled #2 (Readymade) will offer new music, unusual tours, a cash bar, and other art-related activities, all with a dose of the unexpected. This month's event highlights Duchamp, arguably the most influential artist of the 20th century, who made a life of examining the nature of art and challenging the limits of what it can be.

Duchamp's pioneering gestures—among the most radical was the designation of manufactured everyday objects as "readymade" works of art—carried his signature flair for irreverence and irony and sent shockwaves through the art world that still reverberate today. Visitors at Untitled #2 (Readymade) will have a chance to experience the impact of his ideas on the art world, and can take tours such as "You Say Urinal, I Say Fountain." They'll even be able to participate in the creation of a "readymade" collaborative sculpture in the Museum. Visitors who wish to "give up art" for chess, as Duchamp did, can participate in the chess tournament with a chess master in the Duncan Pavilion. Catering will be provided by Bistro Boys and Gourmet Fine Catering.

The Untitled final-Friday series of events are all included in regular Museum admission. In April the Museum will host Untitled #3 (Babel/Babble), where visitors will be tempted to speak their minds and explore the power of words in art. May's final Friday gets naked! Untitled #4 (Birthday Suit) will pay homage to the human body and explore how artists since the beginning of time have drawn inspiration from the human form.
